Article 43 En savoir plus sur cet article NewCaledoniaFrance1.Article41Ensavoirplussurcetarticle We conducted a study with leaders and health care workers in and beyond the NunatuKavut community of Labrador, asking them what should be emphasised in a community review. It also discusses the dynamics of community-based research practices and, specifically, methods for conceiving, constructing, and sustaining research projects. In this article we examine similarities and differences in the way ethical review is constructed and approached from university, Aboriginal and, in particular, Inuit perspectives.
