She built a family around her of friends and animals that was far from ordinary, but so complete. Unexpectedly, Christopher provided this peripatetic traveler with something she had sought all her life:

One of the final paragraphs is my very favorite in the whole book, and speaks volumes. He was particularly glad that she always put her victim to sleep before eating it. The rat was hungry and thirsty. A breeze brought him the smell of clover—the sweet-smelling world beyond his—a childhood book, with a smooth cover, it was blue.
