He presents a methodology for taking the literary characteristics of biblical texts into account in the text-to-sermon process and then applies that method. Long argues that the literary form and dynamics of biblical texts can and should make a difference in the kinds of sermons created from those texts, not only because of what the texts say but because of how they say it. For example, the genre of the Psalms is different from the genre of the parables, therefore sermons should each be outlined differently. Students will depend on the Lord whose powerful Word transforms hearts.
