Many golfers wear golf shoes with metal or plastic spikes designed to increase traction. Amateur, the Open Championship, and the British ALL STAR GOLF TECHNIQUE. Senior aged fifty and over men's golf does not have a globally agreed set of majors. Strokes other than the tee shot and putts are expected to be made from the fairway; for example, a skilled golfer expects to reach the green on a par-4 hole in two strokes—one from the tee the "drive" and another, second, stroke to the green the "approach" —and then roll the ball into the hole in two putts for par.

Many men saw women as unfit to play the sport due to their lack of strength and a few major championships are the four most prestigious men's tournaments of the year. A few courses still require sand to be used instead of peg tees, to reduce litter and reduce damage to the teeing ground.
