The more hilarious weddings, the better. Having read and adored Fresh Hell I'd met a bridezilla recently, you know the Fresh Hell of bride-to-be who think she's right at all time even though her decision was plain stupid, and yet I continued helping out, not for her but for my mother. I feel the author has deliberately made this character a diametrically opposite one to that of her debut book, where the main character there is a bit selfish, Lilah doesn't have a selfish bone in her body and she is always trying to attend all weddings, answering all calls, planning all that needs planning -except she doesn't seem to ever put herself in Fresh Hell.
